MYVIT AMINOX

Nutritional Supplements for Application via Drinking Water

MYVIT AMINOX - in case of increased energy requirements and during stress situations

MYVIT AMINOX Strong is an ideally-balanced liquid formulation consisting of L-carnitine, betaine, magnesium and calcium for application via drinking water. It increases the conversion of energy and protein during the critical phases of production which are characterized by metabolic stress. It stimulates the uptake of feed and water and has a positive influence on the functions of the liver and intestine.

Optimal conversion of feed energy is the basis for economic flock management

MYVIT AMINOX improves the utilization of feed energy in case of metabolic problems during all critical periods in poultry production.

L-carnitine in particular plays a key role in energy metabolism; betaine promotes protein conversion and supports the immune system; magnesium has an essential part in cellular metabolism and supports kidney functions while calcium reinforces skeletal structures.

Problems, such as reduced feed intake, fatty liver syndrome, kidney disease and heat-induced stress can be reduced by using MYVIT AminoX.
